CONTRIBUTORS

Melvin Baker (President's Office) is Archivist-Historian for Memorial University of Newfoundland. A graduate of Memorial University, he holds a Ph.D. in history from the University of Western Ontario. Currently he is writing a biography of Sir William Coaker and a history of the Newfoundland salt codfish trade between 1908 and 1938. Email address: melbaker@mun.ca

Raymond B. Blake, Professor of History at the University of Regina, is the author and editor of more than a dozen books. A graduate of Memorial and York University, his new book on Ottawa-Newfoundland relations will be published in 2015. His current SSHRC-funded research focuses on identity and citizenship, and he is completing a book on how prime ministers have attempted to articulate a national identity. He was born in Pushtrough on Newfoundland's Southwest Coast and has taught at universities throughout Canada and Europe.

Peter Neary is the author of On To Civvy Street: Canada's Rehabilitation Program for Veterans of the Second World War (Montreal & Kingston: McGill-Queen's University Press, 2011).

Richard Matthew Pollard (PhD Cambridge, 2009) is a sessional instructor in history at the University of British Columbia. His research explores the textual legacy of the early Middle Ages, with particular focus on depictions of the afterlife, the early medieval papacy, and the reception of Flavius Josephus. Email address: richard.pollard@ubc.ca

Dr. Marianne Stopp is a historian in the Heritage Conservation and Commemoration Directorate, Parks Canada, and holds an adjunct position in the Dept. of Archaeology, Memorial University.
