EDITORIAL: AFTER ONE YEAR

With this issue, the HSTC Bulletin marks the end of its first year. The editors are extremely pleased that each issue managed to get out on time and that we are solvent. As we prepare for our second year of publication, we would like to thank all those who have helped us by providing material, financial assistance, and encouragement. We have had more material for each issue than we could print and look forward to much more as the Bulletin reaches new readers. While our circulation is still below 100, it has grown steadily and our readership includes non-subscribers. We will continue our efforts and hope to expand our scope, but this will depend upon you, our readers. If finances allow, we also hope to print the Bulletin in a more handsome format, but for this, too, we must rely upon support.
